INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The portfolio's sub-adviser, J.P. Morgan Investment Management Inc. (the "sub-adviser"), seeks to achieve the portfolio's investment objective by investing its assets in a broad mix of underlying Transamerica funds ("underlying portfolios"). The portfolio expects to allocate its assets among underlying portfolios with the goal of achieving exposure targets over time of approximately 70% of its net assets in equities, which may include stocks and real estate securities, and approximately 30% of its net assets in fixed income, which may include bonds, cash equivalents and other debt securities. The actual percentage allocations at any time may vary. The sub-adviser may increase equity exposure to approximately 90% of net assets or may decrease equity exposure to approximately 30%, and may increase fixed income exposure to approximately 70% of net assets or may decrease fixed income exposure to approximately 10% of net assets, subject to the portfolio's multifactor risk management framework. The risk management framework incorporates quantitative models and signals. Under this framework, the portfolio's maximum equity exposure may be limited in response to individual asset class momentum signals and a portfolio level volatility signal. Notwithstanding the portfolio's equity target and any maximum equity exposure limit imposed under the risk management framework, the sub-adviser may elect to allocate fewer assets to equities and more assets to fixed income when it believes it is advisable to do so. The portfolio may not achieve its stated asset mix goal.

The underlying portfolio uses a volatility control strategy. Volatility control strategies, in periods of high market volatility, could limit your participation in market gains; this may conflict with your investment objectives by limiting your ability to maximize potential growth of your policy value. Volatility control strategies are intended to help limit overall volatility and reduce the effects of significant market downturns during periods of high market volatility, providing policy owners with the opportunity for smoother performance and better risk adjusted returns.

Asset allocation, an investing strategy of dividing money among many types of investments, can help investors manage risk but cannot guarantee a profit or guard against loss.

Wilshire 5000 Total Market Index and Bloomberg Barclays US Aggregate Bond Index are unmanaged indices used as general measures of market performance. It is not possible to invest directly into an index.

All facts, statistics and information presented are those of the underlying portfolio in which the investment option invests. This underlying portfolio is only offered as an investment option within a variable annuity contract.

Variable annuities are long-term tax deferred vehicles designed for retirement purposes. They offer three main benefits: tax-deferred treatment of earnings, guaranteed death benefit options, and guaranteed lifetime payout options. Variable annuities are subject to investment risk, including possible loss of principal.

The value of the variable annuity will fluctuate so that when surrendered, it may be worth more or less than the total of premium payments. Past performance is no guarantee of future results.

A number of investment options, or subaccounts, are available under the variable annuity.

There are other investment choices available with different management fees associated with each choice.

The COVID-19 pandemic has caused substantial market disruption and dislocation around the world including the U.S. During periods of market disruption, which may trigger trading halts, the fund's exposure to the risks described elsewhere in the prospectus will likely increase. As a result, whether or not the fund invests in securities of issuers located in or with significant exposure to the countries directly affected, the value and liquidity of the fund's investments may be negatively affected.

You should consider a variable annuity's investment objectives, risks, charges, and expenses carefully before investing. Go to www.transamerica.com for prospectuses containing this and other information. Please read them carefully.
